

Hello guys, I hope you are staying focused on school and keeping busy and creative. I have been looking for fun art places to explore and exciting little projects for you to do at home.

The first one is for you to discover more about yourself by creating a self portrait. We started this in our last class, but this is a modified version you can do at home. If you remember we were exploring patterns and colors to make our huge traced portrait of a classmate. In this project the image will be of yourself.

But, first let us learn more about the artist Gustav Klimt, who is the inspiration for your self-portrait. You are going to go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art to meet Gustav.

Click on this link and follow the instructions <https://www.metmuseum.org/art/online-features/metkids/explore/>

1. Go to TIME MACHINE
2. Scroll to 1900-PRESENT check the box
3. Click on the push icon "button" on the lower right of your screen.
4. Scroll through the art work until you reach the painting "MADA PRIMAVESI"
5. Scroll and read about the artist and the painting. WHO, WHAT , WHEN, WHERE
6. Read discover and Click on "want to know more" read
7. Read IMAGINE write down how you would describe yourself
8. Read CREATE Do the project...it is another way to create the project we started in class.

HAVE FUN AND POST PICS OF YOUR SELF PORTRAITS ON FACEBOOK! OR SEND THEM TO ME AT spreski@syrdiocese.org I WANT TO SEE THEM! I MISS EVERYONE! KEEP WATCHING AS I WILL SEND MORE THINGS ALONG. STAY HEALTHY!
